

If I need instant traffic reports this is an opportunity to get it without waiting through all the talking and commercials and music, to make a driving decision and change the normal route due to traffic problems. Also a chance to hear weather information if I am traveling to a city that is covered by the XM weather and traffic information, to know what to expect in traffic and inclement driving conditions that can change with little notice and this gives the chance to get it immediately and not wait for the radio stations to get through with their mandatory station identifications, commercials, music list, and personality commentaries. I think that the weather and traffic channels on satellite radio is a sharing of information that can change quickly and the listeners need to have the ability to get this information quickly in whatever location they are in without having to surf the stations before you find one that has the information you need to make, a possible life threatening, decision. Leave the weather and traffic alone on the satellite radio and let these people who thrive on bashing the United States and its officials through radio and broadcasted opinion to find a better use of their ability to reach the large mass that listen to them and make opinions based only on what they want their listeners to hear.

Thank you for your time,
Mike McCurley